For Lovers of God's Word of Truth

AID TO BIBLE UNDERSTANDING: Everyone who loves God's Word of truth will find this recently published Bible dictionary a wonderful aid in acquiring understanding of the Holy Scriptures. Whenever you read or study the Bible and notice an unfamiliar term, it is easy to look it up in this helpful volume. Articles are arranged alphabetically, and there are two columns to each page.

This comprehensive reference work deals with people, places, plants, animals, notable events, figurative expressions and main teachings found in the Holy Scriptures. It can help you to answer Bible questions. For example, when reading the Genesis account, you may wonder: How could Eve say at Cain's birth that she had acquired a son "with the aid of Jehovah"? Why was Cain's sacrifice unacceptable to God? Note the brief excerpt below from the article on "Cain" and see how this volume quickly answers such questions.

CAIN [acquisition, or, something acquired]. The first child born on earth to the original human pair, Adam and Eve. (Gen. 4:1) The name Cain (Heb., Qa'yin) apparently is derived from the root word qa·nah', "to acquire." God had not taken away the reproductive powers of sinful Adam and Eve. Also, Eve's statement, "I have acquired [form of qa nah'] a man with the aid of Jehovah," could be made by her on the basis of God's declaration, given in his judgment upon her, that he would greatly increase the pain of her pregnancy and that in birth pangs she would bring forth children.—Gen. 3:16.

Cain became a cultivator of the ground and, "at the expiration of some time," he, as well as his younger brother Abel, brought offerings to present to Jehovah, feeling the need to gain God's favor. Cain's offering of "some fruits of the ground," however, was not 'looked upon with any favor' by God. (Gen. 4:2-5; compare Numbers 16:15; Amos 5:22.) While some point out that Cain's offering is not said to be of the choicest fruits whereas Abel's offering is specified to have been of the "firstlings of his flock, even their fatty pieces," other texts of the Bible do not seem to view Cain's offering as having been inferior as to the quality of the products. Rather, as Hebrews 11:4 points out, Cain's offering lacked the motivation of faith that made Abel's sacrifice acceptable. The inferiority of Cain's offering may also be because his offering was bloodless, whereas Abel's represented a life poured out.
